

4 NATIONS AGREE ON REPARATIONS IN KIND

BRITAIN, FRANCE,
BELGIUM, JAPAN
IN AGREEMENTPROTOCOL MEETS ONE OF THREE OF BRITISH OBJECTIONS TO YOUNG PLANITALY CONSENTS TO IMPORT
LARGER QUANTITIES OF ENG-LISH COAL FOR RAILWAYSBy FREDRICK KUH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

The Hague, Aug. 24.—The first formal agreement reached by the international reparations conference since it began its sessions here was attained today at 4 P. M., when Britain, France, Belgium and Japan agreed to sign a protocol covering the question of reparations in kind.

The protocol meets one of Britain's three main objections to the Young plan, which threatened the conference with disaster. Its chief departure is that under it, Italy consents to import large quantities of British coal for the Italian state railways.

The protocol, which was being drafted today, probably will be signed Sunday or Monday. The agreement marks the conclusion of the discussion on deliveries in kind. England contended that heavy deliveries in kind by Germany injured her own export trade, especially in coal, and wanted some balancing recompense to prevent further stagnation of her already hard hit mining industry.

AMATEUR IN

GAIN $50 LOOT4 BUSINESS PLACES IN WEST CON-CORD, MINN., ARE
VISITEDPOLICE BELIEVE BURGLARIES
WERE COMMITTED BY YOUTHS
IN VICINITY

West Concord, Minn., Aug. 24.—(U.P.)—A gang of amateurish bungling burglars raided four business establishments here during the night, battered the dial of one safe, worked apparently hours on another that already was open and carried off a motley assortment of loot estimated at $50.

The looted establishments were: Standard Lumber Company where the dial of the safe was battered off. The bandits, however, were unable to open the inner door of the strong box and got only $10.

Adams Lumber Company safe was unlocked but the burglars battered it with crow bars only to discover that it contained no money.

Farmers' Elevator Company safe withstood the assaults of the gang. Loss was only one pair of spectacles which belonged to an employee, and a fountain pen.

West Concord Creamery Company: loss, $2 in cash and about 15 pounds of cheese.

Roy Bringham's Beary cattle barn also was raided but the burglars took nothing more than a pair of milk.

Police were of the opinion that the burglaries were committed by youths in this vicinity.

MISSOULA, MONT.SPEED HOLMAN WON THE FIRST DAY'S HONORS BY THRILL-
ING POWER DIVEBROUGHT HIM TO GROUND 14
SECONDS AHEAD OF A
WICHITA MAN

Missoula, Mont., Aug. 24.—Humming through the smoke of western Montana forest fires, the Travel Air piloted by syndor Hall of St. Louis led the way for eight Portland-Cleveland air derbyers and was the first to land here today after the hop from Spokane, Wash. Hall crossed the line at 9:40:22 A. M. mountain time.

Following Hall was Tex Rankin, who landed at 9:55:56.

Major G. H. Eckerson of Springfield, Ore., brought his plane down at 9:58.

Felts Field, Spokane, Wash., Aug. 24.—(U.P.)—The motors of eight sleek sky racers roared and sputtered in the early morning air today as their pilots awaited the starter's word to send them away to Missoula on the second lap of the Portland-Cleveland national air derby.

Charles W. Speed Holman, St. Paul, won the first day's honors by a thrilling power dive over the field which brought him to the ground a scant 14 seconds ahead of T. A. Wells, Wichita, Kansas, who had pursued him from the take-off at Portland.

Holman was being pushed out of first as Wells glided his Travel Air to the field. Holman dropped from a high altitude and flattened out when but 100 feet from the ground to take first place in elapsed time. He completed the first leg in 1:55:12.

Clarence E. Bates, Milwaukee, Wis., one of the nine racers to start from Swan Island airport, was the victim of a jinx that hovered over his Waco ever since it was brought to Portland. He was forced out of the race when he crashed on a sand bar in the Columbia river near Bridal Veil, Ore. He developed motor trouble and made a forced landing. The plane turned over when it struck the ground and broke a wing. Bates was uninjured.

Felts Field, Spokane, Wash., Aug. 24.—The Portland-Cleveland air derby was resumed today when Syndor Hall, St. Louis, flying a Travel Air, took off at 7:30 A. M.

The other seven fliers followed at three minute intervals in the following order:

Major G. H. Eckerson, Springfield, Ore.; Waco; Rem Clark, Portland, Travel Air; Dick Rankin, Portland, Waco; Tex Rankin, Portland, Waco; W. H. Emory, Bradford, Pa., Travel Air; Charles W. "Speed" Holman of St. Paul, and T. A. Wells, Wichita, Kansas.

The fliers expected to reach Missoula before noon, when it would be determined whether they would push on or remain there over night. Missoula had been listed as the first overnight control.

NET OPERATING INCOME OF N. P. IS INCREASING

St. Paul, Aug. 24.—(U.P.)—Officials of the Northern Pacific railway announced today the net operating income of the road for July was $1,851,114, an increase of $496,210 over the same period last year.

The monthly report of revenues and expenses, filed today with the Interstate Commerce commission, shows the large increase in revenues to be in freight, with a decrease in the revenues from passenger service amounting to $521,704, compared with the July report of 1928.

YOUNG CUDAHY

SCENE, LASHING FLAMES
TO FURY

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 24.—(U.P.)—The heroism of firemen and unknown volunteers who dared death to move bed-ridden patients of a hospital and an occupied Pullman car from the path of a roaring fire was rewarded today with the knowledge that not a single life was lost in the $1,000,000 fire which laid waste a 10-acre tract of mills, office buildings and a hospital in eastern Spokane last night.

Six firemen were injured, one seriously, as they fought to save those trapped in mills by the sudden fire which was whipped over six blocks by a 40-mile gale.

For five hours the flames lashed through the yards of a lumber company and the yards of the Great Northern railroad, spreading in all directions to threaten the entire city.

The special car of L. W. Hill, chairman of the board of directors of the Great Northern railroad, was marooned in the center of the blaze. With fire eating around the car, volunteers in propelling the car several hundred feet away where the fire was extinguished and the car moved clear out of danger. Hill himself was not in the car but arrived on the scene later to direct the work of saving the railroad's properties.

The Paine sanitarium was directly in the path of the flames. The suddenness with which the blaze swept down over the building trapped many of the patients. Firemen and volunteers appeared to carry out aged women and direct attendants in moving the patients from the hospital cots. Several patients were removed just before the flames enveloped the building. The sanitarium was completely destroyed.

Cause of the fire was undetermined. As near as could be learned it started in a sawdust bin in the McGoldrick Lumber Company about 6 o'clock. Within a few minutes it had spread over several blocks through the mill yards and railroad office buildings.

Train service over the Great Northern lines was cut off and all service carried on over the Northern Pacific tracks. The main line tracks for several hundred yards and the Spokane United Railway bridge were destroyed.

Clements, Minn., Aug. 24.—A fire which started when gasoline in a cream testing machine ignited, destroyed four business buildings here late Friday, with a resulting loss of $50,000.

Fire departments were summoned from Redwood Falls, Springfield and Morgan, but were too late to save the buildings.

Minneapolis, Aug. 24.—An investigation of a blaze which started on the second floor of a garage here and destroyed 10 automobiles, was conducted by fire marshals. The loss was estimated at $50,000.

Seventy-sixth Bombing of Year in Chicago

Chicago, Aug. 24.—(U.P.)—The 76th bombing of the year in Chicago occurred today when a black powder bomb was exploded in the entrance to a 16-family apartment house at the busy intersection of Sixty-fourth and Ashland boulevard. Witnesses said they saw a small man with a decided limp drop a package at the entrance and then drive away hurriedly in a grey sedan. Today's was the first daylight bombing of 1929.

CAPTAIN TURNER
SEEKS TO BREAK
HAWKS RECORD

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Aug. 24.—(U.P.)—Capt. Roscoe Turner flew west into a fog at 5:21:21 a. m. (EST) today in quest of the trans-continental flight record held by Capt. Frank Hawks.

Turner's destination is Los Angeles and he plans to make stops for refueling at Cincinnati, Tulsa, Okla., and Albuquerque, N. M.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 24.—(U.P.)—Capt. Roscoe Turner, who left New York at 5:21 a. m. today in an attempt to break the trans-continental flight record now held by Capt. Frank Hawks, landed here at 9:18 a. m. today. He took off again almost at once.

NOW SAFE BEYOND
THE HAZARDOUS
HEIGHTS OF WEST14 SURVIVORS OF WOMAN'S AIR
DERBY POINT TO CENTRAL STATESTODAY'S PROGRAM CALLS FOR FLIGHT TO KANSAS CITY AND
ON TO EAST ST. LOUIS

Wichita, Kas., Aug. 24.—(U.P.)—Safe beyond the hazardous mountains of the west, the 14 surviving contestants in the women's California to Cleveland air derby pointed their planes toward the level plains of the central states today in their race for fortune and vindication of women's claim to a place in the air.

Today's program called for a flight to Kansas City, the only scheduled refueling stop and then on to Parks Field, East St. Louis, Ill.

Their gay spirits undaunted by tragedy and misfortune the "Ladybirds" entered the final stages of their race with definite seriousness. Cash prizes of $25,000 await the winners of the derby in Cleveland Monday and with the finish in sight only a little more than one hour in total elapsed time separated the four leaders.

The four leaders in the heavy plane class were Mrs. Louise Thaden of Pittsburgh; Mrs. Gladys O'Donnell, of Long Beach, Calif.; Ruth Nichols of New York and Amelia Earhart, New York.

Mrs. Phoebe Omie held a lead of nearly three hours in the light plane class.

Mrs. Thaden, competing in the "housewife" class, held a lead of nearly 40 minutes over Mrs. O'Donnell. Miss Nichols and Miss Earhart of trans-Atlantic fame, were closely grouped about 30 minutes behind Mrs. O'Donnell.

Wichita, Kas., Aug. 24.—Blanche Noyes was the first woman derbyist to leave Wichita this morning for Kansas City.

The other entrants in the Santa Monica-Cleveland $25,000 race followed her at brief intervals.

Amelia Earhart left the ground at 9:20, followed by Phoebe Omie at 9:22. Gladys O'Donnell took off at 9:24.

Her plane was damaged slightly in a brake test, but repairs permitted her to leave on scheduled time.

Ruth Nichols was off at 9:26. Louise Thaden, the last of the fliers across the starting line, was in the air at 9:28.

Thea Rasche this morning showed judges of the derby a telegram from the United States department of commerce showing her Moth plane had been granted a license and she got away on time.

All started into the face of a southerly wind and banked to the left, heading into the northwest for Kansas City with the exception of Ruth Elder who brought a cheer when she banked to the right, flew back and skimmed over the heads of the crowd before heading towards Kansas City.

JOHN COOLIDGE TO BE MARRIED
NEXT MONTH

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 24.—(U.P.)—Hurrying to his office at the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad this morning, John Coolidge paused to confirm reports he would be married next month to Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of Governor and Mrs. John H. Trumbull.

"As to the exact date," John told the United Press, "it's not my place to announce it. I prefer to let that come from the proper sources."

The former president's son admitted he had been "shopping round" in New Haven for a modest little apartment—something commensurate with a junior clerk's salary.

The Trumbulls are vacationing at Moosehead Lake, Me.

Reports in Plainville, where the ceremony is expected to take place at the governor's mansion, say the wedding will take place Sept. 14 or 15. The wedding invitations are reported already most ready to be sent out.

AND WELL ON HER WAY TO
LOS ANGELESBy MILES VAUGHN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Tokio, Aug. 24.—Flying high and fast over the steamer lane to the American northwest, the dirigible Graf Zeppelin was speeding across the Pacific ocean today, well on her way to Los Angeles in the Japan-to-California leg of her flight around the world.

At 6 P. M. today (4 A. M. EST.) the Otchichi radio station reported the Graf's position at 168.30 east, 43 north and travelling at 60 miles per hour. The position indicated the dirigible had travelled 1,600 miles since she left the Kasumigaura airport at 3:13 P. M. yesterday and was travelling along the Yokohama-Seattle steamer lane.

The Japanese communications department announced that the Zeppelin's position at 9 P. M. (7 A. M. EST.) was 43.05 north, 174.10 east. The position is about 7,850 miles northeast of Tokyo. The Zeppelin was nearing the international date line, at which time she will drop a day and turn back to Saturday morning, seven hours slow of eastern standard time. Messages from the Zeppelin said the passengers spent a most uncomfortable night. The huge craft, commanded by Dr. Hugo Eckener, encountered violent storms before it reached the open Pacific and was tossed about by the powerful winds.

Grave fears were aroused that the giant bag would explode when lightning flashed on all sides but Dr. Eckener finally maneuvered the air liner out of the storm area and the danger was passed.

The passengers were unable to sleep, however, throughout the night, because of the winds and the cold. The three Japanese who boarded the Graf at Tokyo after a hot summer in the capital of Japan, were the greatest sufferers from the weather. They were swathed in their winter underclothing and sweaters. One of the correspondents, filing radio to his newspapers, complained that his fingers were so cold he could hardly write.

The messages revealed that traveling at the speed she was going the dirigible should reach Los Angeles by 6 P. M. EST. Monday. She was making 85 miles an hour without difficulty.

Portland, Ore., Aug. 24.—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin carried on a long conversation with the steamer President Taft shortly after 4 A. M. (PST) today, the Mackay radio station here reported.

Mackay officials believed the Graf to be about 1500 miles from Japan when the conversation took place. Signals from the Zeppelin were clearly heard during the night by the local Mackay station.

Washington, Aug. 24.—The navy department was notified today by the commandant of the San Francisco naval district that the Graf Zeppelin was approximately 1,600 miles northeast of Tokyo at 6 A. M. EST.

The navy's message from the commandant said: "Graf Zeppelin position 11:00 GMT, latitude 43.30 north, longitude 171.1 east. We are now in communication with the Graf Zeppelin direct."

Cordova, Alaska, Aug. 24.—A severe storm is passing down the Alaskan coast and probably will cross the path of the Graf Zeppelin now en route to California from Japan, the coast guard cutter Haida reported today.

The Haida is enroute from Unimak Pass to the east so it may be of assistance to the Zeppelin if necessary. The ship radioed here that it passed through the storm off the Alaskan coast.

Steady progress is being made by the Zeppelin, the ship reported. Signals are clear and distinct, the location of the dirigible being approximately 1800 miles from Tokyo at 7 A. M. Pacific standard time.

BORDER GUERRILLA WARFARE CARRIED ON IN MANCHURIA

SOVIET TROOPS MASSED ON THE MANCHURIAN-SIBERIAN BORDER

USING MACHINE GUNS, ARMORED CARS, RIFLES TO HARASS CHINESE PATROLS

Manchuria, Manchuria, Aug. 24.—(UP)—Border guerilla warfare, grown common here during the last two weeks, continued in full force today, with the Soviet troops massed on the Manchurian-Siberian border using machine guns, armored cars and rifles to harass the Chinese patrols.

General Chang Hsueh-Liang, commander of the Chinese forces in Manchuria, reported repeated violations of Chinese territory by Red army cavalry patrols who, he said, have been crossing whenever the opportunity presented itself.

As a defensive measure, it was announced here, Chinese sappers last night destroyed 86 railway siding stations in the vicinity of Manchuria.

A New Door needed on the Back Porch

The Back Door looks a little neglected, doesn't it? For one thing, the screening has rusted and fallen away in spots. Doesn't keep the flies out. And the delivery boys and the ice man have soiled the woodwork. It does look messy. It isn't much of a job to put in new netting and to paint the main door and the frame of the other. Let's get busy. What do you say?

NEGRO BELLHOP HELD FOR CRIME

CHARGED WITH KIDNAPING AND ASSAULTING WIFE OF A SOUTHERNER

Savannah, Ga., Aug. 24.—(UP)—Partially identified by the victim, a negro bellhop was held in the Savannah jail today as the man who Thursday evening kidnaped and criminally assaulted the wife of a prominent Savannah man as she walked alone down a principal street here.

Police said finger prints of the negro would be checked today against those made in the woman's blood, which were found on the windshield of the automobile that was used for the kidnaping.

The woman was able to go to police station last night and tentatively identified the negro as the man who assaulted her. She said she did not wish to make a positive identification, however, because she realized that he would be hanged for the crime if convicted.

The negro was employed as a bellhop in the Desoto hotel here and was unable to give a satisfactory account of his movements the night of the crime.

Feeling against the negro had risen somewhat since the attack and the police department was taking every precaution to prevent violence. Additional patrols were established last night in the southern part of the city, where the attack occurred.

The attack on the woman Thursday night was the fifth similar occurrence in the past three months. Police believed the same person was responsible for all the attacks.

Inevitably

A physical director advises that if one doesn't live to be eighty years of age it is a crime. And it will be punished by death too.

SATURDAY, AUGUST 24, 1929

Farm Bureau at State Fair

THE Farm Bureau will be well represented at the State Fair. Congressman C. G. Selvig, of Crookston, scheduled to deliver an address upon the subject: "The Tariff and the Farmer," will be the chief speaker on the annual Farm Bureau Day program at the Minnesota State Fair, Thursday, September 5.

The Farm Bureau Day program will open in Territorial Pioneers Hall at 10 o'clock a. m., with President A. J. Olson of the state federation presiding. The special program will be terminated at 12 o'clock noon.

In addition to Congressman Selvig, Mrs. Ellsworth Richardson of Des Moines, Iowa, Home and Community Director of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation, who is widely and favorably known to farm women in the middle west, will speak on the subject: "What Farm Women Talk About."

Secretary J. S. Jones announced this week that the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation plans to keep open house on the fair grounds for all members during State Fair Week, August 31 to September 7. Farm Bureau headquarters this year will be located in the Agricultural Building, where an attractive booth has been arranged for the convenience of members. All members are urged to register at headquarters and to make themselves at home there.

Art Treasures at State Fair

AMONG the art treasures to be exhibited at the State Fair are a hundred oil paintings, sculptures and bronzes loaned by the Grand Central galleries, New York city.

Yamanaka galleries of New York and Chicago, importers of art and rare subjects, have loaned one of the finest collections of Oriental art ever assembled in America to be exhibited at the fair, including rare priest robes and costumes from China and Japan, 50 prints by the most famous early Japanese sculptures nearly 2,000 years old.

Another interesting feature will be the exposition of the ninth international water color exhibit, assembled by the Chicago Art Institute, and composed of 125 paintings by Holland, German, French, Russian, English and American artists. This collection is coming from the Milwaukee Art Institute where it has been on display.

Fifty "black and whites," representing the development of this field of art from the 13th to the 20th centuries have arrived from the Albert Roullier art galleries, Chicago.

Of course some space is to be allotted the futuristic school. Some of those cubist nightmares look as good upside down as any other way.

Propose Joint Sanatorium

THE idea of joint sanatoriums conducted by several counties, following the plan of Crow Wing and Aitkin counties at Deerwood, is appealing to other counties.

A proposal that Steele county join with Blue Earth, Waseca, Faribault, Watonwan and Nicollet counties, in the construction and support of a tuberculosis sanatorium to care for patients of the several counties was presented to the Steele county board at a special session August 13.

Although no action was taken at the session, the proposal may receive further consideration from the Steele county commissioners, who have been considering several plans for the care of local patients.

To Honor Kellogg

FRANK B. KELLOGG, St. Paul, former U. S. Secretary of State, is to be honored in a nation-wide radio hookup originating in the Twin Cities next Tuesday evening.

The program will be broadcast over WCCO and the Columbia network between 9 and 9:30 p. m. in honor of Mr. Kellogg and to mark the first anniversary of the signing of his peace pact in Paris, August 27, 1928.

Mr. Kellogg will deliver an address during the half hour program, which will also include special music.

WE notice Cleveland is a temporary air capital of the nation. An aeronautic exposition is being held there and three groups of aviators are speeding there in air derbies. We wonder why Chicago, often called the "Windy City," never has featured aviation. The Cicero flying field is one of the best in United States and commercial and mail air traffic is heavy to Chicago.

POULTRY

DAMP FLOORS ARE
MENACE TO FOWLSOwners Who Tolerate Them
Are Inviting Big Losses.

Damp floors in poultry houses are inexcusable, in the opinion of E. R. Gross, agricultural engineer at the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment station. Poultrymen who tolerate them are inviting heavy losses in their flocks and a general reduction in the efficiency of the birds that survive.

A dry wooden floor may be made of two layers of boards with building paper between, the top layer to be a good grade of matched flooring, so that it may be kept clean. Many poultrymen find it desirable to keep the floor 12 to 18 inches above the ground and to leave the south foundation wall open for air circulation. The other sides should be closed tight to keep out cold winds.

For a dry concrete floor, either of two methods may be used. The first is as follows: Build the foundation walls; level the ground inside, do not remove any soil; fill in with 6 to 8 inches of coarse sand, gravel, or cinders; and place 3 1/2 to 4 inches of concrete floor on top. In this construction, be sure the foundations are high enough for the fill of cinders and the floor. This raised floor with insulating fill will be dry.

The other method is to lay a two-course concrete floor with a layer of roofing paper between.

Sometimes the floor itself is not the cause of dampness. Then the remedy must be sought in a study of the care of the house ventilation, litter, or sunlight admitted.

Highly Concentrated

Foods Hurt Turkeys

The turkey has a rather large digestive system and long intestines, accompanied by an ever-present appetite, so that if birds are compelled to satisfy this appetite on highly concentrated foods, indigestion is almost certain to result.

If this is not immediately relieved death will follow, and usually salts or, better still, castor oil will effect a cure.

Plenty of green food is essential to young turkeys, such as alfalfa (if quite tender), clover, lettuce, chopped onion tops and dandelion leaves. All green food supplied to turkeys should be cut a little way up from the ground to avoid black-head contamination that may chance to lurk in the soil.

Fertile Eggs Reason

for Paltry Returns

Nature intends the egg to hatch a chick. To get the best food results from eggs we have to defeat nature's purpose by producing infertile eggs. A fertile egg is just as good as an infertile one if it is used at once, but it won't hold up under summer market conditions.

Sell or confine the roosters as soon as the breeding season is over. The hens will lay just as well without the male in the flock. Using early hatched cockerels is a good breeding practice on the farms. Selling them as soon as your hatching season is over saves a feed bill of from 90 cents to $1.50 each. If you have particularly valuable males, confine them.

Difficult to Decide

Sex of Young Poults

It is difficult to be absolutely sure of the sex of young turkey poults. The males will usually "shoot the red" and show development of the fleshy growth on the head a little sooner than the females, and they are also likely to grow more rapidly than the females.

With the Bronze variety of turkeys the sex can also be detected by the plumage color as soon as they are well feathered. The breast of the females show the characteristic white tips to the breast feathers, while the males will show dark tips.

Changing Breeds

Several years ago it was common advice to avoid changing breeds of poultry. That was before the days of the large hatchery when poultrymen established a flock with a few settings of eggs, possibly bought at a high price, and then spent several years in developing their own flocks. A change meant starting all over. In many cases birds of both breeds would be retained and soon a pure-bred flock became a flock of crosses followed by a flock of mongrels.

Birds Not Wanted

Most poultry keepers realize that there are two courses open to them in regard to unwanted males. One plan is to destroy them as soon as they can be distinguished; and the other is to feed them well right from the first day and so bring them to a fleshy condition. The latter practice is sound so far as the early cockerels are concerned, but very few poultry keepers approve of it for later broods. Some poultrymen do not hesitate to call surplus fowls.

In Their Buzzy
Wagon

"THIS flivvering across country is not as joyful as it sounds," growled Mr. Bellamy, as he munched a dried-beef sandwich.

"Don't call my Rolway a 'flivver,'" objected Jack Bellamy. "Where's the thermos bottle, dad?"

"Where?" he echoed in a parched tone. "Your impeccable Wilkins has failed to put one in the hamper."

Jack growled as he looked around the rather forsaken country through which the well-oiled motor road wound like a black snake.

Something black showed on the reflector beside the driver. Jack craned his head around to scan the shabby car in the rear; it was an ambitious little closed car, much the worse for wear, but it rattled bravely along, keeping closely in the wake of the Rolway. Suddenly there was a loud report and the Rolway started a little. Jack stopped the car at the side of the road, with a warning backward flap of his hand.

"Fire, front—dat," explained Jack, as he got out and removed his coat.

Mr. Bellamy paused as the shabby little flivver came up and stopped in front of them. A girl's charming face looked out at them.

Beside her sat another girl, fair and blue-eyed. In the same attire. The healthy tan and rosy color testified to their delightful gypsying across country, too.

They saw only Mr. Bellamy, for suddenly Jack was on his knees examining the gears of the Rolway.

"Haven't any water on board, have you?" asked Mr. Bellamy.

"I am sorry—we have drinking water, not enough for—"

"Don't want it for the car—dying of thirst," explained Mr. Bellamy.

"The poor thing!" exclaimed the other girl. "I will get it, Dorothy."

At the sound of Dorothy's name the head of Jack Bellamy emerged turtle-wise from beneath the car, his expectant eyes seeking the dark-haired girl. She saw him at the same moment and paled.

"Oh, see the pretty man," breathed Helen as she passed Dorothy with a thermos bottle in her hand.

"Idiot," growled Dorothy, wondering what adverse fate had brought her to the same trail with Jack Bellamy.

whose erratic father had refused to allow his son to marry a poor, unknown girl. They had lost sight of each other, and now she and Helen Gray, jogging along in their beloved "buzzy wagon," journeying from town to town and sketching by the way, had found themselves trailing a gorgeous car that blocked the narrowing road.

And it had proved to be the car of Jack's objectionable and objecting parent, and Jack was looking at her with surprised, devouring eyes. She shook her head slightly, disowning his acquaintance.

Mr. Bellamy drank deeply from the silver cup again and again. It was a shining cup—Dorothy's christening cup—and bore her name. The horn-rimmed spectacles of Mr. Bellamy peered closely at the inscription.

"Dorothy Meares — Meares — that your name?" he asked sharply.

"Yes," admitted Dorothy, regaining her lost color.

"I knew a Meares. Old friend of mine. We used to hunt in Canada together, long ago. What was your father's name?"

"Nathaniel," she said reluctantly.

Bellamy looked disturbed, and his face softened. "He was my friend. And now he has passed away, my dear?"

"Two years ago, at Seattle," she answered.

He nodded. "I heard that. A brave man and a thoroughly honest friend; one in a thousand. I am very glad to meet his daughter. My name is Bellamy, Angus Bellamy."

"Thank you, Mr. Bellamy. My father always kept your picture in his study, the one in which you were landing a monster trout."

"Right! Jack, come here and meet the daughter of an old friend of mine. Miss Meares, this is . . ."

Dorothy's slim form stiffened. "I have met your son, Mr. Bellamy."

"Jack, you never told me." He frowned on Jack, who looked equally stiff and distant.

"Miss Meares is the young lady I wish to marry, dad," he said at last.

"What?" bristled Mr. Bellamy, immediately mindful of the undesirable girl Jack had wanted to marry. "What? What?"

"One of Dorothy's pies," irrelevantly broke in Helen Gray, as she came forward with a huge flakey apple pie in her hands. "I am starved, and it is twenty miles to the next town—who will have a slice of pie?" She put her things on the running board of the Rolway. She flashed a silver knife and passed pieces of delicious pie around on paper plates.

Mr. Bellamy ate, and mutely passed his plate for more. "Anyone who can make a pie like this . . . the daughter of my best friend . . . Dorothy, my dear, go and make it up with Jack!"

Dorothy led Jack to the shabby, happy little car that she and Helen owned together. She bent, and swept a kiss at the open door.

"The dear old buzzy wagon . . . it brought us right to you!"

"I want to kiss it myself," grinned Jack. "Only it's a great pity to waste 'em!"

A FAIR QUESTION

"Mamma, what's this?" asked Little May, picking up a calendar her father had brought home.

"It's a calendar, dear. It's something by which we tell the time of the year or month or week."

May turned it over carefully for a minute or two. "Mamma," she inquired anxiously, "where do you wind it up?"

Fair of a Thousand
thrills

THE FAIR OF A THOUSAND THRILLS! — that's what best describes the great Minnesota State Fair this year.

The world's largest band, daring auto racers, the pick of the world's open-air circus acts, gorgeous fireworks, champion horse races, 40 "Whoopee" Way shows, an aviation program presenting all the progress of this industry the past twelve months, and hosts of other attractions will grace the entertainment program of the great Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Livestock Show, Twin Cities, Aug. 31 to Sept. 7.

The gigantic Minnesota High School Band of 225 pieces, recruited from the leading high school bands of the state, will play all eight days. This band, in charge of W. J. Wainwright, eminent band conductor, is certain to be one of the biggest features ever presented by any fair in America.

"The Last Days of Pompeii", world's premier fireworks spectacle, will be staged seven nights, Aug. 31, Sept. 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 7. Every detail of the terrible catastrophe which befell the ancient Roman city of Pompeii during the terrible eruption of Mount Vesuvius 2,000 years ago, will be depicted before a scenic background more than 400 feet long extending the full length of the grandstand.

A dozen thrilling open-air circus acts; a "Whoopee" Way of 40 enlarged rides and shows; three days of auto races; four days of harness and running horse races; a big aviation program; and scores of other entertainment and educational features comprise a program never equalled anywhere.

CANNY SCOT, TOMMY ARMOUR, LEADS IN WESTERN OPEN

4 STROKES UNDER PAR WITH 136 FOR FIRST 2 ROUNDS

GENE SARAZEN, NATIONAL OPEN CHAMPION IN 1922, IS TWO STROKES BEHIND

HORTON SMITH BROKE PAR BY ONE STROKE WITH FIGURE OF 139

By BERT DEMBY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 24.—Four strokes under par with a 136 for the first two rounds of play, Tommy Armour, serious-minded little Scot of the Tam O'Shanter Country Club, Orchard Lake, Mich., led the field today as the western open golf tournament went into the final 36 holes.

Only two of the other entries were under par as the last round began. One of these, Gene Sarazen, who was national open champion in 1922, was two strokes behind Armour, who also is an ex-national open titleholder. The other, Horton Smith, the Joplin, Mo., sensation who burned up the courses during the winter tournaments, broke par by one stroke with 139.

There were no exactly par figures during the first 36 holes but three competitors were one over par with 141 each and no less than seven still were in the championship running with scores of 142.

All entrants who held a 152 total for the first 36 holes qualified for the two final rounds today. Picking a favorite to win was much like the situation in most golf tournaments where Bobby Jones is not entered. Anyone of a dozen players was regarded as a possible winner.

In general golfers have run true to form. Among the sixteen who had 143 or better there were only two newcomers to leadership in tournaments, one of them, Orville Schell, an unheard-of youngster from Chicago, had a score of 142 as he began his last 36 holes. The other, Dick Nelson, Indianapolis, one of seven golfing brothers all of whom usually are around when tournaments are being played but none of whom ever seems to be very high in the scoring, had a 143 for the first 36 holes. Nelson's good score was the result of a 69 turned in Thursday.

Yesterday's Heroes—Hal McKain of the Chicago White Sox, George Blaeholder of the St. Louis Browns and Pat Malone of the Chicago Cubs, each of whom turned in five-hit games.

Young McKain, White Sox rookie, blanked the Athletics until the ninth, the White Sox winning, 3 to 1. It was the fourth straight defeat for Philadelphia and their sixth defeat in the last seven games.

Blaeholder pitched the St. Louis Browns to their second straight shut-out victory over the New York Yankees, 5 to 0. The Browns scored their five runs off Penneck in the fourth. It was the Yanks' third straight defeat.

Malone baffled the Phils, while the Cubs were pounding home runs off Ray Benge and the National League leaders won, 6 to 1. Hack Wilson, Hornsby and Zach Taylor hit for the circuit. It was No. 33 for Wilson, placing him in a tie with Babe Ruth and Chuck Klein for the major league lead.

As the Pirates were idle, the Cubs increased their lead over Pittsburgh to 11 games.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—(U.P.)—Prospects of the featherweight boxing title returning to American hands when Earl Mastro meets Andre Routis of France appeared bright to ringsiders who saw the west side boy lay his left hand all over Eddie Shea at the Chicago Stadium last night.

Routis has been signed to meet the winner of the Shea-Mastro fight for some time. Promoter Paddy Harmon expects to stage the championship match in November.

Mastro, who comes from the same neighborhood as Shea and at one time served as a sparring partner to the older fighter, easily won six of the ten rounds. Three were even and one went to Shea.

HELEN WILLS IN 7TH DEFINITE BID FOR TENNIS CROWN

Forest Hills, L. I., Aug. 24.—(U.P.)—Helen Wills is making her seventh definite bid for the women's national tennis championship today at the West Side Tennis club.

Six times since 1922 the California girl has played in the finals of a national championship, and five times her efforts have been successful.

Today she meets Mrs. Phoebe Watson, of Great Britain, in a seventh trial and is a unanimous favorite to retain her championship. The ruthless way in which Miss Wills has fought her way through five opponents in this tournament, with the loss of only two games, has stamped her game as unbeatable.

Jack Quinn Plans to Retire

TWENTY-NINE years in baseball is enough for one man, says Jack Quinn, who throws twisters for the Athletics.

Jack, who was christened John Quinn Plous, was forty-four years old July 5. That is the way the records have it. Jack looks like he might be fifty. Yet he throws like he was twenty-five.

Anyway Jack has announced his retirement effective at the end of this season.

Quinn, after breaking into professional baseball in the Pennsylvania state league in 1903 first hit the majors with the Yankees in 1909. Four years later he was sent to Rochester. The Braves had him for a few moments in 1913, and then Jack jumped to Baltimore of the Federal league for a two-year hitch.

When the outlaw league blew up in 1915 Quinn headed westward and joined the Vernon club of the Pacific coast league. He was there in 1916, 1917 and part of 1918, going to the White Sox when the coast loop suspended because of the war.

Jack finished the season there and found himself the center of an argument between the White Sox and the Yankees. He was awarded to the latter and remained with that club through 1921.

Traded to the Red Sox in 1922, the veteran played there through 1924 and then went to the Athletics on waivers early in the 1925 season.

Jack, at forty-three, had the best year of his career in 1928, when he won 18 and lost 7.

Until this year Jack had played sixteen years in the majors, winning 170 and losing 142 games. He was in 462 games and pitched 2,641 innings.

All of this time Quinn played in but one world series. That was with the Yankees in 1921. Jack pitched four innings, allowed eight hits and two bases on balls and was credited with a defeat.

HIS DAY

Urban ("Red") Faber, a Cascade, Ia., boy who made good in the big league, was honored with a "pot of gold" and many other gifts on Faber Day, August 20. The illustrious White Sox pitcher has been hurling for that team for a little matter of fifteen years.

"The St. Louis Blues"

FROM the way the St. Louis Cardinals bounce managers, some would almost swear that the outfit is run by one of those typical "efficiency experts" that have prevented business from becoming too prosperous ever since the war. Good old scribe Bill McKechnie, fired by the St. Louis management, after leading the team to the National League pennant last year, has been recalled and Billy Southworth exiled to Rochester.

"Hair Trigger Sam" Breadon, a fine old sport, constitutes the principal part of the brains back of the Cards. He canned McKechnie last year when the team flopped, orders, etc., on the selection of pitchers, the placing of players, and other such master-minding. Such stuff usually signifies the greasing of the skids and the swinging of the gate. Howley is supposed to be an able manager and popular but, as not so quaint custom has it:

"In St. Louis, win or lose, Managers are moanin'! Those Breadon-Ball blues!"

Baseball's High Hope Honors for 1929 unquestionably belong to Billy Southworth who signed a two-year lease on a home in St. Louis last Spring when taking the "hot seat" there!

ENTERTAINMENT MORE COLOSSAL THAN EVER BEFORE

70TH ANNUAL MINNESOTA STATE
FAIR AND NORTHWEST LIVESTOCK SHOW

TO BE HELD AUG. 31 TO SEPT. 7, LARGEST ATTENDANCE IN HISTORY EXPECTED

An entertainment more colossal than ever presented by it will be staged by the 70th annual Minnesota State Fair and Northwest Livestock Show, Aug. 31 to Sept. 7, Cal Sivright, vice president and general manager of the fair, has announced.

The program this year will embrace fireworks, two stages of open-air circus acts, auto races, aviation, a 225-piece feature band, horse races, a gigantic observation balloon, evening horse show, 'Whoopee' Way show attractions.

The big feature of the evening grandstand program, every night except on Sunday, will be the mammoth fireworks spectacle "The Last Day of Pompeii." This spectacle was first built and staged fifty years ago, when it presented so many new and revolutionary features that it has always occupied much the same role in the realm of fireworks as the "Birth of a Nation" in the field of motion pictures.

The open-air circus acts engaged for the two-stage program afternoon and evening, every day and night except Sunday, will present outstanding acts.

An evening horse show will be held in the Hippodrome five nights, Sept. 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6. Prizes of $13,110 are offered for the competitions, which have attracted the biggest entry of high quality horses ever seen at a fair. One thousand dollar stakes for five-gaited saddle horses, walk-trot-canter saddle horses and hunters, will be commanding features.

Auto races will be staged Saturday, Aug. 31; Wednesday, Sept. 4, and Sunday, Sept. 7. More than a score of the leading dirt track and speedway stars of the country will compete for prizes and honors.

Horse races will be put on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. Purses of $19,000 with added money, have attracted a big entry of harness and running horses.

The shows on the "Whoopee" Way will be the Morris & Castle shows.

The observation balloon, moored on Machinery Hill a year ago, is being brought back for passenger-carrying and exhibition. It was more than 100 feet long.

A 225-piece Minnesota State Fair High School Band, specially organized for the fair, will be a big attraction. This band, directed by J. W. Wainwright, of Fostoria, Ohio, has been recruited from the leading high school bands of the state.

Snakes Swarm Road

Broomhead, Sask.—Thousands of small snakes migrated across the government highway near here recently. They wriggled along in almost orderly formation covering a strip of road several feet in width, moving from one ditch to another and on into the prairie.

Record Still Stands

Captain Roscoe Turner, of San Francisco, fighting a plucky fight to break the coast-to-coast time record, arrived at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, from San Francisco in nineteen hours and fifteen minutes. Turner had hoped to best the time of Captain Frank Hawkes whose recent record of seventeen hours and twenty-eight minutes still stands.

Time to Make a Will

Will making should be done when you are well. To wait until you are ill and then have it suggested that you should do so would be so depressing that the mental effect, reacting on the body, might make the illness terminate fatally.

He Lives Alone

The blue shark lives a solitary life at the surface of the sea far from land, says Nature Magazine. It follows a ship for days sometimes, waiting for scraps of food.

From Aristotle

The Greek inscription on the main facade of the Academy of Sciences is from Aristotle and may be translated: The search for truth is in one way hard and in another easy. For it is evident that no one can master it fully nor miss it wholly. But each adds a little to our knowledge of nature, and from all the facts assembled there rises a certain grandeur.—Washington Star.

Murdered

Search is being made for a man believed to have murdered Mary Kreszewski, 22, whose body, the face battered beyond recognition, was found in a ditch August 21 beside a highway four miles north of Kenosha, where she had lived. Her disappearance was reported by relatives on July 27.

FRIENDS REBUILD HOME OF ORPHANS

Provide New Shelter When Farmhouse Burns.

Florence, Wis.—A plucky orphan boy and his two little sisters were dealt with harshly when fire destroyed their farm home and all their belongings at Fern, a community near here, but folks at Fern and in Florence made up for the blow in a hurry. The three are living in a new home—even if it is just a shack—they have new furniture and clothing and the boy, Charles Moller, nineteen, can keep on with his man-sized program.

Charles has been pegging away two years, and has made payments on a 40-acre farm, where he lived with Leona, thirteen, and Rose, seven. Leona was the "mother" of Rose and did the housework. Charles worked for Earl Biller at a small farm sawmill. He helped Leona with her work after his regular hours, and the three were putting up the bravest fight anyone in these parts has ever seen.

One night Charles went over to Louis Tumpack's farm, a quarter-mile away, for milk. He stopped to visit a while and started home after 9 p. m. Halfway home he saw flames, and when he got there he found the two girls shivering in their nightclothes outside the burning house. They had been awakened by smoke and had barely escaped.

It wasn't long before the news spread through Fern and Florence, and telephones began to ring. "Did you hear about the Moller children; what can you give for them?" was the casual greeting. Women crossed backyards to carry the news. Biller, at the sawmill, said that they could live in a shack near the mill and soon after a table, a bed, then a chair appeared. Clothing for the girls had been brought early. By the end of the week the place was completely furnished and the children had more clothes, a stock of groceries, and even some money.

POULTRY

CHICKEN HOUSES NEED IMPROVING

Lack of Light or Ventilation Discourages Hens.

Many old poultry houses are lacking in light or ventilation or both. Where ample light is already provided through windows but ventilation is inadequate, it is often best to remove the upper sash of the windows. If there are not enough windows, additional openings should be cut in the upper part of the front wall.

"Under Kansas conditions it is desirable to make these openings equal to about one-tenth of the floor space. Hall screen over these openings will serve to keep the poultry in and rodents out," suggests Walter G. Ward, extension architect, Kansas State Agricultural college, in giving hints on improving the old poultry house. "Frames covered with a light weight of muslin may be provided in the front openings to protect the flock during very cold or stormy weather."

Many old chicken houses are unnecessarily high and are very cold during the winter months, continues the building specialist. He says a simple remedy is to construct a straw ceiling or loft. The straw is preferably carried on inch mesh poultry netting. For supports 2x4 inch cross ties placed every 4 feet will be practical. About 1 foot of loose straw is placed on the netting and small openings in each end above the straw serve to keep it dry. The straw is left in the poultry house throughout the year.

Find Sour Milk Good Ingredient of Protein

Sour skim milk in unlimited quantities gives a higher total and average egg production, higher profit over feed cost, and produced eggs at a lower feed cost than semi-solid buttermilk, dried buttermilk, meat scrap or sour skim milk whey. The dried buttermilk and semi-solid buttermilk pens gave a smaller percentage of large eggs and a larger percentage of small eggs than did the sour skim milk pen. Some skim milk whey is inferior to the other feeds in every way. The dried buttermilk pen gives the highest hatchability.

A comparison of semi-solid and dried buttermilk shows the semi-solid pen gives higher per cent production and eggs per pullet. The dried pen, however, gives slightly higher yearly average profit over feed cost per pullet, cheaper feed cost per dozen eggs and higher hatchability.

The results of experiments indicate that a vegetable protein supplement to sour skimmed milk, such as peameal, alfalfa meal, and beanmeal, is productive and profitable. In production and profit over feed cost, the supplements ranked: Peameal, alfalfa meal, beanmeal, then no supplement.

Poultry Hints

Shut up or sell male birds.

Cleanliness is the best preventive of poultry diseases.

Brooder houses should be placed where the drainage is good.

Store the eggs in a cool cellar if possible. Market them twice a week.

Feed poultry yellow corn, cod-liver oil, milk and leafy feeds for vitamins.

Young chicks should be encouraged to roost at an early age. The chicks will become accustomed to roosting if a low roost which slopes from the floor back of the house to the rear of the house is provided.

What kind of eggs are going to market this summer? Demand for them may be increased by proper care. Be sure the hens have plenty of clean, airy nests well filled with litter—one nest for every five or six hens.

Round out the corners of the brooder house to keep the chicks from crowding.

Artificial brooding of chicks involves the problems of providing a suitable shelter for them on ground which is free from worm parasite infestation.

Be sure the old hens and young stock have plenty of ventilation during the hot summer months. Open the rear ventilator in the house and take out the windows.

Small eggs produce small chicks. The size of next year's eggs depends first upon breeding, second upon feeding.

Encourage chickens to roost while they are still young to prevent crooked breast bones and crowding and to aid ventilation.

Barley is considered a very good feed for poultry. It is richer in protein and carbohydrates than oats, and has less crude fiber. In some sections it is made a substitute for corn.

N. E. BRAINERD BUS LINE WANTS FLAT RATE

Carl Walblom, Operator Asks State Railroad Commission to Establish 10 Cent Fare

WILL HOLD HEARING

5 Cent Rate to Third Avenue and A. Street Yielding Insufficient Return—Walblom

Claiming that the five cent rate to Third avenue and A. street is yielding insufficient revenue, Carl Walblom, operator of the Northeast Brainerd Bus Line today asked permission of the State Railroad Commission to establish a flat rate of ten cents.

At the present time passengers are charged five cents in traveling to or from that section on the route from downtown Brainerd to Third avenue and A. street. An additional five cent fare is charged passengers traveling beyond that point in Northeast Brainerd.

Two buses are operated by Mr. Walblom. They are the only ones operating in local passenger service.

A hearing on the application will be held at a later date.

ATKIN FAIR OPENS TUESDAY

Horse Show, Races, 4H Club Competition, Vaudeville to Make Fair Best

The Frank Stanley Horse Show with 20 thoroughbred horses in three hot races, Roman standing races, relay races, hurdle races, stunts and a horse pageant will be one of the features of the Atkins County Fair which opens at Atkins Tuesday, August 27, continuing Wednesday and closing Thursday evening.

The amusement program is said to be the most pretentious ever offered at the Atkins fair, while exhibits are predicted to exceed all former years.

Horse racing will be a drawing card. There will also be auto racing. V. Durand, lot 4, Gull Lake Park, Second addition, W. D. $1 etc.

The entertainment includes: Silver Thomas, of the Silver State Vaudeville Troupe, Madame Dumont, accordion broadcaster, trick bicycling, ballet dancing, fireworks and three blocks of midway.

WOODROW

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Michalek from Minneapolis are visiting at Harry Strand's. Mrs. Strand's cousins from Springfield, Ill. are also visiting there.

Recent rains have been a great benefit to pastures and gardens.

The members of the 4H club are attending the county fair at Pequot. Lucile and Evelyn Dullum and Lucile and Virgil Peterson won prizes at the 4H club at Brainerd.

Carl Peterson expects to do the threshing in this neighborhood.

Dullum's callers Thursday were Messrs. Harry Strand, Henry Michalek, John Nelson, Peter Nelson, Marvin Edwards, Mrs. Norton Mrs. Hines and Miss Mary Spafford.

Lloyd Britton, while loading pigs on to a car down at the landing, was thrown from the top of a loaded car to the ground. He received no serious injury.

Two serious car wrecks occurred on the highway not far from here this week. A woman was injured in each case.

Miss Mae Hoskins is employed at Chas. Sellers in Ironton.

Our school room looks better dressed up in a new coat of paint.

John Shufeldt Sr. is a busy man these days filling contracts of piling and attending to his farm work. He hopes to fill an order for 600 pilings this week.

Mrs. Dan Peterson took the 4H club children to the county fair on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Norgard were Brainerd shoppers Saturday.

Mrs. Dullum is offering a bargain in Ancona hens.

At a school board meeting Monday evening a teacher was elected for the coming year. It is surprising how many highly educated teachers are unemployed.

Mrs. Dullum called on Mrs. H. A. Olson recently.

John Nelson and John Dullum were Brainerd shoppers Wednesday.

Harold Whitten and son of Wright, called on John Dullum last Sunday evening. Mr. Whitten has taken a contract to build a piece of road near Nisswa.

Mrs. Inga Holler called at Mrs. Sather's Monday evening.

Both of the Britton families motored to Wm. Britton's camp to visit him Sunday.

Mrs. Ed. Norgard and children visited with Mrs. Chas. Isle at the Martin mine location last Sunday.

Mrs. Dullum surprised some boys down at the mine Sunday tearing some valuable machinery to pieces evidently to get a few cents worth of copper. The boys beat it southward.

We notice that mining property is changing ownership.

T. L. Livingston was having in this neighborhood this week. Tom Thomson is putting up a lot of hay in Nokay Lake township near here.

PLEADS INNOCENCE OF CRIME CHARGED

Fred Potter Arranges Bail at Wadena; Hearing Set for Monday

MOTHER CRITICALLY ILL

Youth Says He Did Not Stop Car Because He Thought a Holdup was Planned

Pleading innocence of the crime he is charged with by Wadena police, that of breaking a lock and stealing nine gallons of gasoline from Guy's filling station, Fred Potter was released on bail of $500 yesterday afternoon according to R. C. Kassie, chief of police at Wadena.

Young Potter who is 23 years old and is married was arrested in Brainerd Friday morning by Officer Aug. at Swanson after he and his wife made a hurried trip from Oakes, N. D. to visit his mother who is reported as critically ill at the St. Joseph's hospital.

The Wadena police chief alleges that he saw the car which Potter was driving parked opposite the oil station and that upon investigation just as the car drove away he found the lock on the filling pump broken and nine gallons of gasoline taken. He said he gave chase and fired twice into the rear of the car.

Potter who returned to Brainerd to be with his mother immediately after securing bonds claims he stopped near the station to put water in his car, and that he did not tamper with the lock or take the gasoline he is accused of. He said he can substantiate his statement that he purchased five gallons of gasoline in Staples.

Potter's arraignment in municipal court at Wadena has been set for Monday.

He failed to stop at the command of the Wadena chief because he thought him a highway man and in outdistancing him he considered he was preventing a holdup," Mr. Potter said.

"There was nothing to identify the chief as an officer of the law. He wore plain clothes and I considered it wise to continue without stopping. When Officer Swanson stopped me in Brainerd I told him that a man whom I thought to be a holdup man had shot into the rear of my car at Staples," he said.

ROLLER SKATING AT LUM

Attraction Added to Pavilion Starting Sunday and Continuing Three Times a Week

Roller skating will be an added attraction at Lum park, starting tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Music will be furnished by a special hook-up of loud speakers and the majestic combination.

"FAMILY JURY" CAN TRY OUT PHILCO BEFORE BUYING

A "family jury" to judge the new Philco Balanced-Unit Radio before it is voted a necessary item in the home is made possible by the Hall's Music House, local dealer in this widely popular electrical radio.

"In order that every member of the family may hear the new Philco, new models of which have just been introduced to the American public," Mr. Hall said today, "arrangements have been made to place any model of the Philco desired in a prospective customer's home for a trial period without any charge to the person trying out the set."

"Philco depends for its continued success on its ability to make satisfied users tell non-Philco users of the good points of the set," said Mr. Hall. That's one reason we'd rather have this perfected instrument tried out for a certain period by every member of the family from the youngest member to the oldest, so that they all can appreciate its value before it is placed in the home as a permanent addition to the family life.

"Once this splendid toned, beautifully made radio is fitted into a room of the house, and a few programs are heard, we are confident that the radio itself will do a great part of our sales talk for us. Already we have used this trial offer successfully in Brainerd and we predict that it will have much to do with keeping Philco in the lead in sales in this territory in the months to come."

3 MORE BANKS IN BANK HOLDING HUGE COMPANY

FINANCE LINKING 3 NORTHWEST STATES, MINNESOTA, NORTH DAKOTA AND MONTANA

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK OF BRAINERD A MEMBER OF FIRST BANK STOCK CORPORATION

The genius of finance is linking three northwest states, Minnesota, North Dakota and Montana in firmer and more wide-spreading bonds in the First Bank Stock Corporation in which the First National Bank of Brainerd holds membership. Today announcement from St. Paul records the addition of three new banking institutions to the $250,000,000 corporation.

It is of unusual interest to this community as the First National Bank of Brainerd is a strong unit in this large organization owned largely by the First National Banks of Minneapolis and St. Paul together with the many other strong affiliations to be managed by an exceedingly strong board of directors included in which are the presidents of seven railroads.

The newly organized corporation has acquired the National Bank of Montana, the Montana Trust and Savings Bank, both of Helena, and the First National Bank of Miles City, bringing the number of Montana houses affiliated with the First Bank Stock Corporation to seven, and the total number of Minnesota, North Dakota and Montana banks in the company to 37.

Resources of the three latest members of the holding company are: National Bank of Montana, $4,500,000; Montana Trust and Savings, $3,000,000, and the First National, $2,900,000.

11 B. S. H. GRADS TO ENROLL AT U.

Plans Laid for Fourth Annual Freshman Week, September 25 to 28

More than eleven graduates from the Brainerd high school will matriculate at the University of Minnesota this fall, according to the reports of Roger Dunn, chairman of the local district committee of university students, who have been working throughout the summer, getting in touch with the new students and planning the fourth annual Freshman Week at the university to be held on September 25 to 28.

Because there are approximately 12,000 students crowding the campus during the opening of the school year at the university, making it difficult for strangers and new students to get acquainted, the Freshman Week Committee, under the direction of Professor Oscar Burkhard and Millard McCabe, student chairman, has arranged a series of registration aids, tours and lectures for the new students.

Freshman Week has become part of the curriculum of the university, and attendance of all freshmen is required. It has been found that with the assistance the new student receives during the short period of Freshman Week he is enabled to reach a greater success in both his scholarship and social attainments during his first year at school.

President Coffman, when asked to express his idea of Freshman Week said, "the man who sets out to transport himself from his home to a distant goal, without knowledge of the road, without looking at a map and without consulting those who have been over the road before him, is making his undertaking needlessly difficult."

"Freshman Week at the University of Minnesota is the evidence of an organized desire to give every new student, as he enters the university, some clear conception of how the land lies. The experiences of this week are equivalent to a preliminary study of the maps before a journey."

Special aids offered to new students during Freshman Week that are not available later include special opportunities to learn of the many lines of work conducted by the university, special explanations of courses and colleges, tours of the campus to learn of the location and facilities of the numerous campus buildings, services to advise all new students by a committee on vocational and educational guidance, lectures on "How to Study," "Use of the Library," and the furnishing of a better opportunity to catch the true "Minnesota Spirit" of service and friendship.

Graduates of Brainerd high school who are planning on entering the university this fall include the following:

Eino Apuli, Lester Croger, Arno Hautala, Carl Zapfe, Helene Marie Stadbauer, Harold Flaata, Frank Wise, Lois White, Robert White, Floyd Finne.

Several others have not yet made their decisions as to entry at Minnesota.

Blue Blood And Red

by ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE.

Eddie Regan has been persuaded to give up his position as shipping clerk and join a gang, of which the "Big Guy" is the leading spirit. Bernice Veressi, the girl, tells him he has at last been given his big chance and intimates that she is his for the asking after the "job" has been pulled off. Eddie realizes the gravity of the crime which is about to be committed and is inclined to quit.

Now Go On with the Story

CHAPTER II
T first Eddie feared that he was losing his nerve. Everything desirable in life was right within his grasp—the big money, the alluring thrill of dangerous exploits, the intoxication of Bernice's warm, luscious love. He was sitting on top of the world, his feet hanging over the edge.

They wanted him with them, these fellows, the wisest bunch in New York. As though a film flickered in his mind he caught detached glimpses of his past life—dull, uninteresting bits. As a kid he saw himself swarming in the tenement district, the streets of New York, the pavement had been crude and vulgar. He had lived in a cheap apartment after his father and mother were dead. . . . basement pool rooms and sultry Sundays at Coney Island.

It was a funny thing—the way he had gone around with hard guys but never done the things that got a fellow in wrong with the cops. Nobody had ever told him to lay off the crooked ways. It just happened that he had slipped through the meshes of temptation. Dimly he remembered something in a book about honesty being the best policy, but he had even forgotten what the book was, or where he had seen it.

Funny, too, that guys like Louie the Limp, and Maxie and the Shadow had always liked him and treated him right. They were always accusing him of having brains. Even the Big Guy had never been surly to him. The chance to get it right with the mob had dawned, without effort. It was just a case of getting a good break—and now, suddenly, when everything was jake something in his breast had crumpled and turned to ashes.

Tonight he was elected to go out on his first job and he was ashamed to find, inexplicably, that he was trembling all over. He felt like a coward, yet he knew he was not a coward; he had as much nerve as any one. But there was something wrong with him. Somebody looked out a window.

"The Big Guy's got here—there's his car now."

The Big Guy himself came up and the door behind him was shut tight with locks, bolts and a guard chain. The Big Guy was tall and broad and his face, puffy as it was, had an eagle look. Between his brows there was a perpetual scowl.

His eyes fixed themselves on Eddie and he jerked his head toward the bedroom door. Together they went into seclusion.

"You're taking orders tonight from Mike," the Big Guy said, brutally direct. "You'll have four good men with you and all you've got to do is to perform according to orders. If anything goes wrong—but it won't—keep your mouth shut and I'll look after you. As long as you work for me you'll get all the protection on earth, but if you show yellow or make a noise like a squeal you'll have a swell funeral with plenty of flowers. Get me?"

Eddie got him. The laws of the underworld were as inflexible as concrete. For the welcher, the squealer, the undependable guy who held dangerous information against the mob, there was a definite penalty. Death. And for the weakling there were jeers and epithets that seared the soul.

"O. K." Eddie said, crisply. There had to be a system. The Big Guy never did any actual work himself, although he collected the greater part of the spoils. If anyone got shot or went to prison it wasn't the boss. He was like a general who stayed far from the battle front, directing with a cool, scheming brain. Eddie understood perfectly.

Rejoining the others, Eddie thought they looked at him with suspicious eyes and he wondered if his face was pale. The palms of his hands were dry and he was sick at his stomach. What made him sick was the thought that maybe he would have to take part in slugging some innocent old night-watchman. Maybe an old bird with a family. Maybe he'd have to shoot a cop—Eddie knew a cop—Dan Sullivan. A good guy and just married, too. A fellow couldn't think about things like that without feeling squirmy.

But it was too late now. If he tried to back out it was an even break. He'd never leave the Big Guy's place alive. Maybe, though, they wouldn't knock him off—maybe they'd simply crucify him with insults and jibes. They could take a guy's self-respect and tear it to tatters. They could inflict scorn and indignities that would burn a man up alive. . . .

Bernice Veressi would be the first to call him a rat. The air in the apartment was filling his lungs in a queer stifling sensation. There was a chance in a hundred to get out now.

"Excuse me a minute," he said to a past-faced youth who stood near him. "I want to wash my face and hands."

He went to the bathroom and locked the door. The window was eighteen or twenty inches square. Rising up over the East River he saw a yellow moon. It was the first time he had noticed the moon in years. Slowly he got his head and shoulders through the window and balanced outward precariously until his hands reached the iron of a fire escape over at one side. It required sinuous strength to make it and swing free.

Never in his life had Eddie Regan been more than twenty miles from New York City. His heart was an aching lump of lead. He knew he would have to get out fast, and never return.

Eddie Regan did not know where he was. The freight train had been pounding along for endless dreary hours. The day had passed and the night; he was stiff from lying on the floor of the empty box car and he suffered the confinement of its swaying length after the manner of a caged animal.

Twenty-four hours without anything to eat or drink and almost no sleep had set every nerve aching; his face felt swollen; there was the sensation of sand in his eyes and savage hunger in the pit of his stomach. New York, he figured, was hundreds of miles behind him.

"Next time this damn thing stops," he said aloud, his throat husky and dry from thirst, "I'm going to leave it."

The train stopped while the engine took on water from the great, leaking tank beside the track. Eddie rolled back the sliding door of the car and gazed out at what seemed to be an endless forest of tall straight trees, interlocked at the top in impenetrable green masses. He opened the door on the other side and there was a dismal field enclosed by a rail fence.

Of one thing on earth he was absolutely certain—the Big Guy nor none of the mob ever came to a God-forsaken spot like this. Into this awful loneliness no one would ever track him. It was as good a place as any to quit riding the rails.

After the train had pulled out he followed the track for a quarter of a mile and came to a little red-painted station, a cluster of four or five houses including a grocery store. A setter dog with intelligent bright eyes came up to him and he stooped to pat its head. The animal looked at him with a lazy, darkling affection.

"Well, old dog—what's the good word with you?"

"The dog wagged its tail. 'Know any tricks—can you shake hands?'"

An awkward paw was lifted. Someone, evidently, had taught the animal how. Eddie Regan reached down and took the paw.

"Gee, this is great!" he said in half-amused amusement. "Here I land out in the jungle, and at the first crack a dog comes up and shakes hands with me. A well-earned million dollars. Nobody would believe me if I told 'em!"

The one thing Eddie wanted was to satisfy his hunger; the grocery store seemed the likeliest place to get out now.

"Any chance of getting a meal around here?"

The storekeeper looked Eddie over with a leersure eye. He had seen tramps before but this young man, grimed with hard travel, was a new type. His clothes, his manner of speech, belonged indefinitely to the city. Beyond all doubt he was a Northerner.

"Well, sir, I reckon my wife'll have dinner ready in about two hours if you care to wait." There was a slow drawl in his voice that soothed Eddie.

"Guess I won't wait, Mister but you can wrap me up some cheese and crackers."

"You mean to say, then, that it wouldn't be logical for a woman to be logical?"

A New Kind of Cow

Teacher—What cow is best known for the amount of milk it gives?

Johnny—Magnesia.
Teacher—Magnesia?
Johnny—Yesum, all the drug stores sell milk of magnesia.

Seems Like a Hopeless Case

Johnson—So you gave up trying to teach your wife to drive the car?
Williams—Yes, when I told her to release her clutch she let go of the steering wheel.—Royal Arcanum Bulletin.

A Partnership Loss

Mrs. Silmmer—Your wife was telling me she was going on a reducing diet. Has it proved successful?
Mrs. Ponderose's Little Husband—Quite! We have lost 30 pounds.

Good Money, but Not Enough
Plaintiff at Bow County Court—Your husband is earning good money Woman—It's good money in a way, but there's not enough of it.

Good Location

McGinty—I've a terrible corn on the bottom of my foot.
Pat—That's a fine place to have it. Nobody can step on it but you.

Daily Thought

Every man has at times in his mind the ideal of what he should be, but is not. This ideal may be high and complete, or it may be quite low and insufficient; yet in all men that really seek to improve, it is better than the actual character—man never falls so low that he can see nothing higher than himself.—Theodore Parker.

Daily Thought

The test of friendship is its fidelity when every charm of fortune and environment has been swept away, and the bare, undraped character alone remains; if love still holds steadfast, and the joy of companionship survives in such an hour, the fellowship becomes a beautiful prophecy of immortality.—Hamilton Wright Mable.

No More Gas In Stomach and Bowels

If you wish to be permanently relieved of gas in stomach and bowels take Skauge's Stomach Remedy which is prepared especially for stomach gas and all the bad effects resulting from gas pressure.

That empty, gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach will disappear; that anxious, nervous feeling with heart palpitation will vanish, and you will again be able to take a deep breath without discomfort.

That drowsy, sleepy feeling after dinner will be replaced by a desire for activity. Bloating will cease. Your limbs, arms and fingers will no longer feel cold and "go to sleep" because Skauge's Stomach Remedy prevents gas from interfering with the circulation. A full size bottle for $1.

Sale of School and Other State Lands

State of Minnesota.
State Auditor's Office.
St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 21, 1929.
Notice is hereby given that on October 4, at 10 o'clock a. m., in the office of the county auditor, at Brainerd, Crow Wing county, in the State of Minnesota, I will offer for sale certain unsold state lands and those state lands which have reverted to the state by reason of the non-payment of interest.

Fifteen per cent of the purchase price is payable to the County Treasurer at the time of sale. The unpaid balance is payable at any time in whole or in part within forty years from the date of sale. Interest rate of four per cent per annum, due on June 1st of each year; provided, that the interest can be paid at any time within the interest year without penalty. In effect, this means that the interest money may be paid any time between June 1st and May 31st, first without penalty.

The appraised value of timber when so stated, must be paid in full at the time of sale.

All mineral rights are reserved to the State by the laws of the State. All lands are sold subject to any and all ditch taxes thereon.

Lands on which the interest has become delinquent may be redeemed at any time up to the hour of sale or before resale, to the actual purchaser. Such lands are listed under the caption:

"Delinquent Lands."
No person can purchase more than 320 acres of land, provided, however, that State lands purchased previous to 1905 are not charged against such purchaser. Agents acting for purchasers must furnish affidavit of authority.

Appraisers' report showing quality and kind of soil and on file in the office of the State Auditor at St. Paul, and of the County Auditor at the county seat.

RAY P. CHASE, State Auditor

CITATION FOR HEARING ON FINAL ACCOUNT AND FOR DISTRIBUTION
No. 2528
State of Minnesota, County of Crow Wing, ss. In Probate Court.

In Matter of the Estate of Freeman Thorp, Decedent.
The State of Minnesota to all persons interested in the final account and distribution of the estate of said decedent: The representative of the above named decedent, having filed in this Court his final account of the administration of the estate of said decedent, together with his petition praying for the adjustment and allowance of said final account and for distribution of the residue of said estate to the person thereto entitled.—Therefore, YOU, and EACH OF YOU, are hereby cited and required to show cause, if any you have, before this Court at the Probate Court Rooms in the Court House in the City of Brainerd, in the County of Crow Wing, State of Minnesota, on the 30th day of September, 1929, at ten o'clock A. M., why said petition should not be granted.

Witness the Judge of said Court and the Seal of said Court, this 24th day of August, 1929.

PER M. LARSON, Attorney for Petitioner. 7113S

State of Minnesota, County of Crow Wing, ss. In District Court, Fifteenth Judicial District.
H. L. Nehls, vs. Plaintiff.
John Brookbank and May Brookbank, his wife, Defendants.

Notice of Sheriff's Sale
Notice is hereby given that under and by virtue of a judgment and decree in the above entitled action, dated the 26th day of July, 1929, a certified transcript of which has been delivered to me, the undersigned, Sheriff of said Crow Wing County, Minnesota, will sell, at public auction, to the highest bidder, for cash, on the 21st day of September, 1929, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the front door of the Court House in the City of Brainerd, in said County, the premises described in said judgment and decree, to-wit: An undivided one-twelfth (1-12) mineral right in the following real estate, viz: Lots Number One and Two (1 & 2) in Section Four (4), and Lot Number Three (3) in Section Five (5), all in Township 137 North, Range 26 West of the 5th P. M. Crow Wing County, Minnesota, to satisfy the sums specified due and owing by said judgment, to-wit: the sum of Six hundred Four ($604.00) Dollars, principal and interest; Fifty ($50.00) Dollars Attorneys' fees; Ten and 20-100 ($10.20) Dollars costs; further interest accrued thereon and the costs of this sale.

Dated July 24th, 1929.
CLAUDE A. THEORIN, Sheriff of Crow Wing County.
